Gyr Falcon

Quincy College

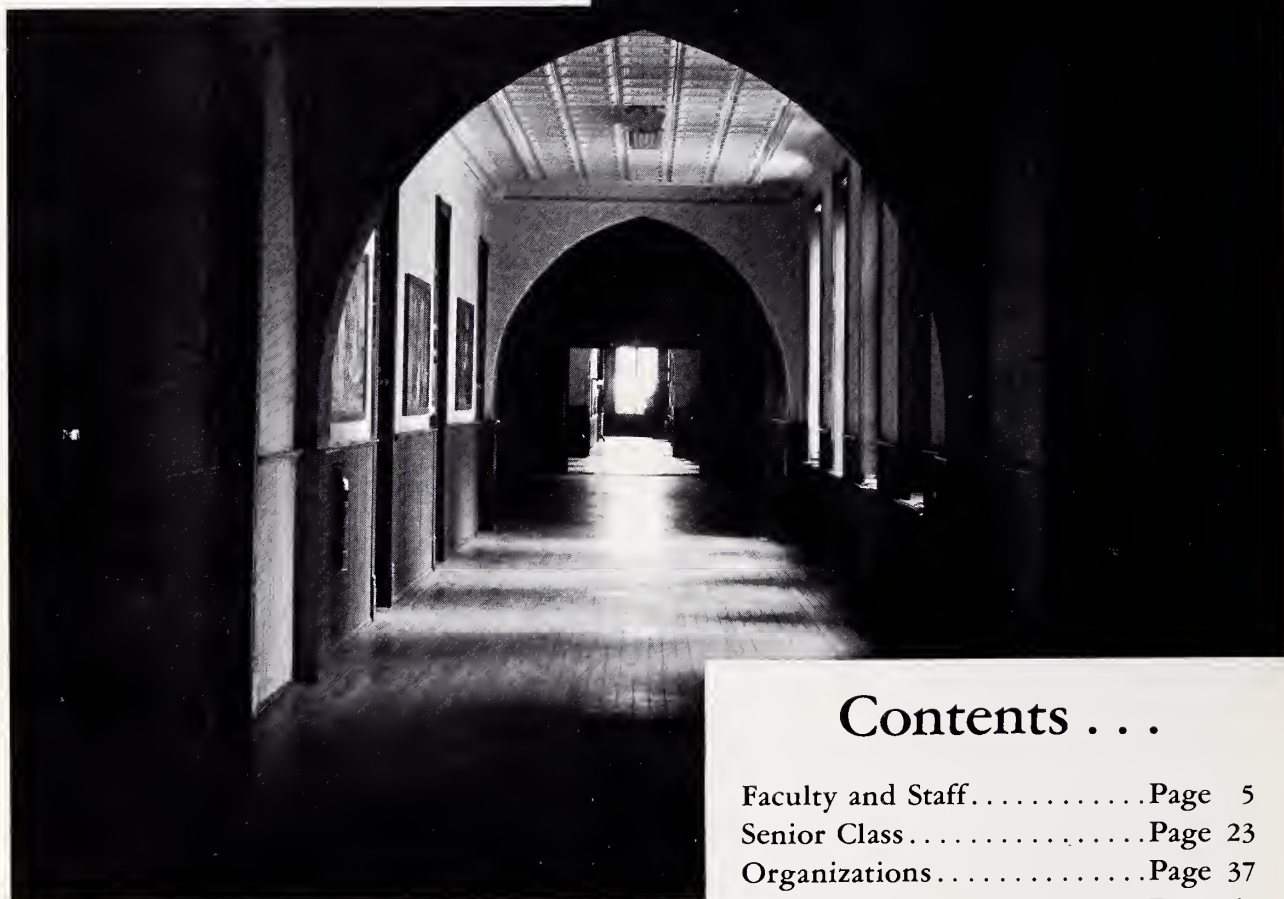

Catholic • Franciscan • Co-Educational

Quincy, Illinois

Foreword

The 1959 Gyrfalcon is published with the purpose of capturing this important year between its covers. Just a century ago the Franciscan friars came to the midwest and shortly thereafter founded our college. Since that time, progress has been the keynote.

The school year just finished has brought its share of events which we will likely remember for many years to come. May this volume bridge the past and frequently recall those activities already stored in our memory.

NEW MEN'S DORMITORY

FACULTY & STAFF

The Very Rev. Pius Barth, O.F.M., Ph.D., Minister Provincial

“College education is a privilege — not a right. A leader can’t be satisfied only to acquire information and develop superficial skills, but he must acquire wisdom to carry out his basic principles and ideas and use his skills for a worthy purpose.”

— address to students at opening of the 1958-59 school year

President . . .

"I am thoroughly convinced that here at Quincy College we have the kind of education that this country needs badly because we center our education around the very fundamentals of life.

That is why we try so hard to bring in faculty members with the proper ideals and enthusiasm who will be real companions to the students to help them keep an interest in the finer things of life."

— Talk to students at the annual senior banquet

Franciscan Prayer for Peace

Lord, make me an instrument of Your peace; where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy.

O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love; for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

The student senate serves the student body as its liaison with the administration. It also performs as a supervisor of other organizations in the college.

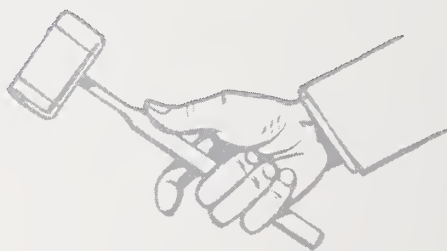

In the physical make-up of the senate, there are combined representative groups of students so that a cross-section of student opinion may be gleaned. The representatives are composed of the presidents and senators from each class. Thus, the representatives in the senate are elected by the students.

Among the major functions of the senate may be numbered the cooperative effort with the faculty at homecoming, the compilation of statistics for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," and the supervision of parents' week-end in the spring of the year.

The Rev. Elmo Kurz, O.F.M., dean of students, is the faculty moderator of the Greek Council and the Senate.

Graduation . . .

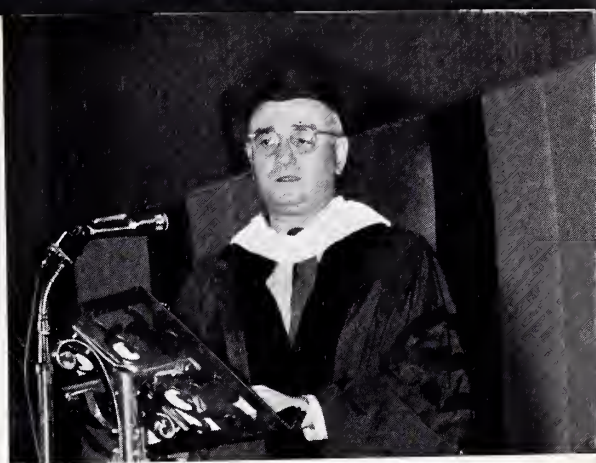

His Excellency, William A. O'Connor, shown here with Father Owen Blum, O.F.M., offered the Baccalaureate Mass.

"The hour is sacred. It is a distinctive privilege to congratulate each of the graduates of Quincy College. Here is the consecrated culmination of consuming years of continuous academic labors. You have purchased this at a tremendous price. Success does not come easily. This academic achievement is a distinction of the highest character. Acknowledgement of this accomplishment is rightfully recognized in the granting of your certificates of graduation. This outstanding tribute is further attested by the personal signatures of its illustrious President and the highly respected Deans of the Faculty concerned.

Bob Hope accepts an honorary Doctor of Letters degree

Father William Powers, United States Air Force Chaplain, received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree before delivering the Commencement Address.

The richly embossed Seal of Quincy College on each graduation parchment is the sacred signet indelibly identifying the distinguished graduate as a competing champion for the high honors so conspicuously conferred.

"A molded brick will always be exactly like the mold.

A folded page will long retain the impression of the fold.

Like clay upon the potter's wheel you're formed through student days,

With roughness smoothed and contour formed and then the finished glaze.

Too late to change! When once the finished product stands
A tribute or discredit to the potter's subtle hands."

The first annual liturgical music workshop was held at the college June 16 — 20 under the direction of Dr. Laverne Wagner and Father Tarsicius Fischer, O.F.M. The busy days were climaxed with a beautiful Mass rendered by the workshop students.

For the second summer, Father Elric Warwick, O.F.M., drama instructor, and Mr. Hugh Fitzgerald, of the department of Fine Arts, mentored the dramatic workshop. It was held for two weeks this year and attracted members of religious orders from many different sections of the country. Again the students helped in the actual construction of the sets used for the dramatic performance and acted in cuttings of several well known dramas.

The Vocation Institute was held August 2—4 and the Medico-Moral Institute August 22—24, both under the direction of Father Pacific Hug, O.F.M.

Franciscan Centennial

Observance . . .

The solemn commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the coming of the brown-robed Franciscans to the Middlewest was celebrated at Quincy College on October fourth, fifth, and sixth, 1958.

The Most Rev. Augustine Sepinski, O.F.M., Minister General of the entire Franciscan Order greets the Very Rev. Pius Barth, O.F.M., Minister Provincial of the St. Louis-Chicago Province in Rome, where they discussed centennial plans.

His Excellency, the Most Rev. Albert R. Zuroweste, Bishop of Belleville, Illinois diocese and a Quincy College alumnus, offered the centennial Pontifical High Mass on Oct. 5, 1958, for the local clergy and religious. In a dinner address later in the day, Bishop Zuroweste touchingly commented that "some of the tenderest and most blessed memories of my life go back to my days at St. Francis Solanus College where I first came as a boy of 13 in 1914. The times have changed but the spirit of the friars hasn't changed."

In answer to an appeal for priests from Bishop Damian Juncker of Alton, Illinois, Father Provincial Gregory Janknecht of Warendorf, Germany, sent nine friars who landed at New York harbor on September 14, 1858. It was the feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross.

By December, 1858, the pioneer friars moved into a newly built friary at Teutopolis, Illinois, situated a hundred miles east of St. Louis. Two years later a novitiate house was built, and by 1862 the fathers opened St. Joseph College at Teutopolis, though the Civil War made such a college seem inopportune.

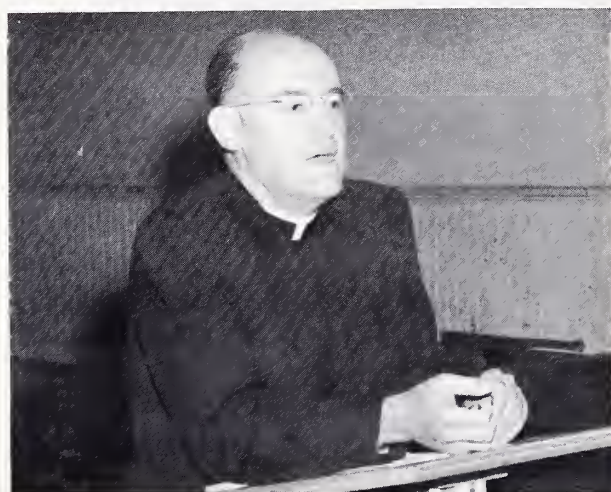

Almost immediately after arriving from Germany the fathers opened St. Francis Solanus College (now Quincy College) in 1860 — the oldest Catholic College in Illinois.

Father Owen Blum, O.F.M., professor of History reviewed the accomplishments of the Franciscans in the last century during a solemn High Mass celebrated by the Most Reverend Pius Barth, O.F.M., in St. Francis Church.

He told a crowded congregation that "in the second century we must spread our efforts to even higher horizons. No prophet could have seen how the small labor of a few pioneers would have grown to apostolic labor in twenty-one dioceses and fourteen states. The essential blessing that we have received from the friars is a gem of great price, our Faith, but the inheritance that we received one hundred years ago can be squandered — so our greater task is to the generations yet to come."

Father Paul Reinert, S.J., president of St. Louis University was guest speaker for the first fall faculty meeting and commented on the centennial observance.

In 1873 Quincy College received a legal charter from the state of Illinois, permitting it to confer academic degrees. The college was later officially recognized by the University of Illinois, affiliated to the Catholic University of America, and fully accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Father Julian Woods, O.F.M., president, receives the 1959 Illinois license plates from State Secretary Charles Carpenter. State representative, Henry Ihnen may be seen in the center. This year's plates are in honor of Quincy College and bear the school's traditional colors, brown and white.

Roaring Twenties Dance . . .

The students of Quincy College had the opportunity to witness one of the most spectacular events ever to appear on the college scene on December 8, 1958. Wing C of the New Men's dormitory took the students and faculty back to the days of the "Fabulous '20's" where the black derby, the chemise and the Charleston were in vogue.

New Citizen . . .

On December ninth, Joseph Anthony, freshman and author of the recently written book, "The Boy From Korea" received his American citizenship. A reception of friends and fellow-students took place in the evening at the college.

On the happy occasion, the honorable John T. Reardon, Judge of the Circuit Court of Adams County, solemnly stated, in part, "that America offers you much out of her abundant resources, and from her profound belief in the worth and dignity of every man, she offers to you freedom and opportunity, and a full share in all the rights and privileges of self-government. She guarantees to each of her citizens that if he wills it, then both materially and spiritually his life can be gloriously fulfilled."

"In return however, America asks and expects personal character. If we be strong, America will be strong. As we live our lives, so will America live."

"America expects of you, effort. Work in America is the key to opportunity. One's pride is in his own strength and courage, and his will to serve family, community and nation."

Anthony, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) William Powers, deputy staff chaplain of the Alaskan Air Command, Mrs. John Reardon, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schemming and Mrs. Margaret Norris.

The Rev. Gervase Brinkman, O.F.M., retreat master, taught for eleven years at St. Joseph Seminary, Westmont, Illinois; was assistant retreat master at Mayslake retreat house for four years, and has served as Catholic Chaplain of Joliet-Stateville Penitentiary since 1947. He is the older brother of Father Gabriel, college chaplain.

Student Retreat . . .

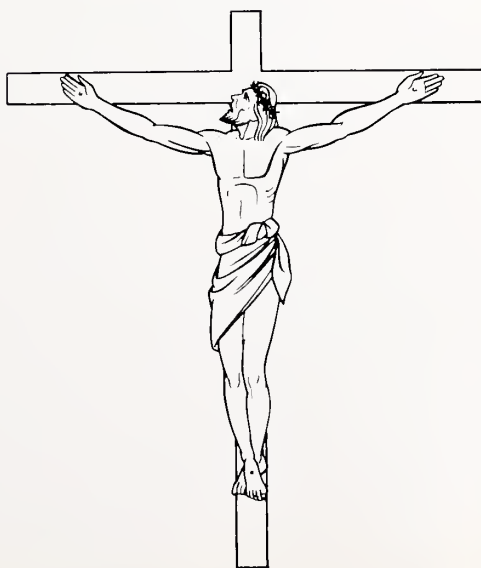

The annual spiritual retreat for Quincy College students opened on the eve of Ash Wednesday and continued for three days.

The retreat master was aided by various priest faculty members in the conducting of the spiritual exercises.

A Retreat Is Many Things . . .

- A chance to think through problems quietly.
- Like an army in retreat, an opportunity to check casualties, estimate supplies and compute strength.
- A "getting away from it all" for two days to spend time with God.
- A periodic check-up of the values that really matter. If our car needs it, if our teeth need it, does not also our soul?
- A refreshing in our mind of the principal truths of Faith.
- An aid to the forming of the man or woman that conscience tells us we should be.

The decision isn't easy.

Twelve Angry People . . .

This is a play about twelve people who are angry because their ordinary little lives have been disturbed. They have been summoned to jury duty to decide whether a nineteen year old boy has murdered his father.

This play was the premier production of Progressive Playhouse, a new cultural organization whose theory it is that theater should be welcome as a year-round part of our lives.

The drama was directed by Father Elric Warwick, O.F.M., instructor in speech and drama and presented in the college's Theatre Intime on January 25, 26, and 27. The second production, "The Desperate Hours" was staged successfully in April for three successive nights.

"Now let's review the facts of the case once more."

Honor Society Installation Ceremony . . .

The presidential address.

On the evening of Sunday, February 8, the social hall was the scene of the honoring of two Quincy College alumni, the dean, and nine senior students by inducting them into Delta Epsilon Sigma, national scholastic honor society.

Professor Marshall Smelser, Ph.D., professor of history of the University of Notre Dame and Professor Paul Jacoby, Ph.D., chairman of the department of philosophy at Seton Hill College, received alumni membership into the society.

In the society's open presidential address, Father Owen Blum, O.F.M., Ph.D., told the purposes of the organization, saying, "Our country is desperately in need of high quality in its academic life to understand our past, interpret the present, and prepare for our ultimate goals in the future."

Delta Epsilon Sigma was founded in 1939 and its 77th chapter was established at Quincy College in 1956.

Standing faculty membership in Gamma Eta Chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, voted by the faculty of Quincy College, is held by the Rev. Francis B. Steck, O.F.M., Ph.D., Rev. Owen J. Blum, O.F.M., Ph.D., president, Rev. Pacific L. Hug, O.F.M., Ph.D., vice president, and Rev. Titus Ludes, O.F.M., Ph.D., secretary.

Dr. Paul Jacoby '37, is received into the society by president, Father Owen Blum, O.F.M.

Student membership in Delta Epsilon Sigma is voted to outstanding members of the senior class. Winners of this award must have maintained a 3.3 cumulative average during three years of residence at Quincy.

The group inducted presented an interesting cross-section of student academic achievement, in that the nine seniors holding the required scholastic average represented nine distinct fields of concentration.

Honors

During the fall semester, a group of Honors Courses was introduced to the students of Quincy College.

Students with a 3.0 or better scholastic average were invited to participate in the new endeavor by its inaugurator, Father Victor Hermann, O.F.M. Students without the 3.0 average were also allowed to participate if they showed serious interest.

Such courses as "The Great Books Colloquium," "Religion and Culture," "The Meaning of Freedom," "The Man in Medieval Society," and discussions of Sorokin's Crisis of Our Age and "Four Great Novels" were studied. Each course was worth one semester hour of credit.

Leading the various discussions were Father Gabriel Brinkman, O.F.M., Father Joachim Daleiden, O.F.M., Father Owen Blum, O.F.M., Father Pacific Hug, O.F.M., Father Titus Ludes, O.F.M., Father Thomas Brown, O.F.M., and Mr. Hugh Fitzgerald.

Twenty-one Quincy College education majors began their pedagogic experience by participating in the practice-teaching program under the auspices of the Quincy College education department and the Quincy Board of Education.

All students in the field of education eventually have the opportunity to participate in the practice-teaching program. The student usually expresses an interest in a particular grade and is then appointed on the basis of aptitude and subject matter being taught.

Before actually teaching, student practice-teachers have a brief period of observation in which they note procedures and techniques of the supervising teacher. After receiving classroom responsibility, the practice-teacher is free to follow the supervisor's methods of instruction, or to launch into a method of his or her own as long as it meets with the approval of the college and the classroom supervisors.

The aim of this program and experience is the observation and gradual introduction to full-time duties of classroom procedure.

Drama . . .

The Tempest

The Tempest, a poet's last and most poetic farewell to his art, was the Shakespearean presentation of the year by the Quincy College Drama department. Under the direction of the Rev. Elric Warwick, O.F.M., instructor in speech and drama, the production was presented November 5 through November 9 in the Quincy College Theatre — Intime.

Basically a romantic comedy, the plot centers around a shipwreck which occurs upon the shores of an enchanted isle that is ruled by an exiled Duke. Dramatic and humorous complications set in when it becomes apparent that the shipwrecked crew included the Duke's enemy and his son. Dancing and an original musical score composed by Paul Saffran, Quincy College student, highlighted the play.

Murder in the Cathedral . . .

The Fine Arts Department of Quincy College presented T. S. Eliot's Murder in the Cathedral in the college Theatre Intime Feb. 25 through Feb. 28.

Poet Laureate Eliot's play is a searching examination into one of Christian history's most sacrilegious murders — the martyrdom of Archbishop Thomas Becket in his cathedral on Dec. 29, 1170. It is a mystery but not in the twentieth century mode: a man is murdered and the criminals are known — only the reason forms the play's argument. Eliot borrowed the direct theatricality of Shakespeare and the Greeks in composing his modern classic. This includes the use of the Grecian chorus to aid the tale in its telling.

This production of the famous Canterbury Festival play was directed by Mr. Hugh Fitzgerald, instructor in drama. Father Elric Warwick, O.F.M., designed and constructed a single unit set which accentuated the dramatic power of the play by its simplicity and symbolism.

Dr. Laverne Wanger directed the Christmas concert in the Theatre Intime.

A newsworthy feature of the music program is the annual band and chorus festival for high school students; held this year on March 7, it attracted students from the whole state of Illinois. The band was composed of one hundred and twenty-five select high school musicians.

A unique feature of this year's festival was that the participating students had not seen the music they played until the day of the festival.

Dr. Laverne Wagner of Quincy College directed the festival band this year.

Chairman for the eighth annual festival was Mr. Hugh Soebbing, music teacher at Quincy College.

Holiday Tournament

The fifth Quincy College Annual NAIA Tournament ended with the ever aggressive Western Illinois University and the fabulous Tennessee State University, battling for first place honors. Tennessee State Tigers won over the Western Illinois Leathernecks in a record breaking scoring contest, 114—54. Each of the three nights, the teams played to a capacity crowd of 2800 in the Quincy College Memorial gymnasium.

As was to be expected the court action was fast and spectacular and local promoters beat the drums for the event as "the nation's outstanding small college tournament." No fan who attended the games would have accused the sponsors of false advertising.

The fifth playing of the tournament included all new teams except the host, Quincy College. Each year the tournament has had a different champion.

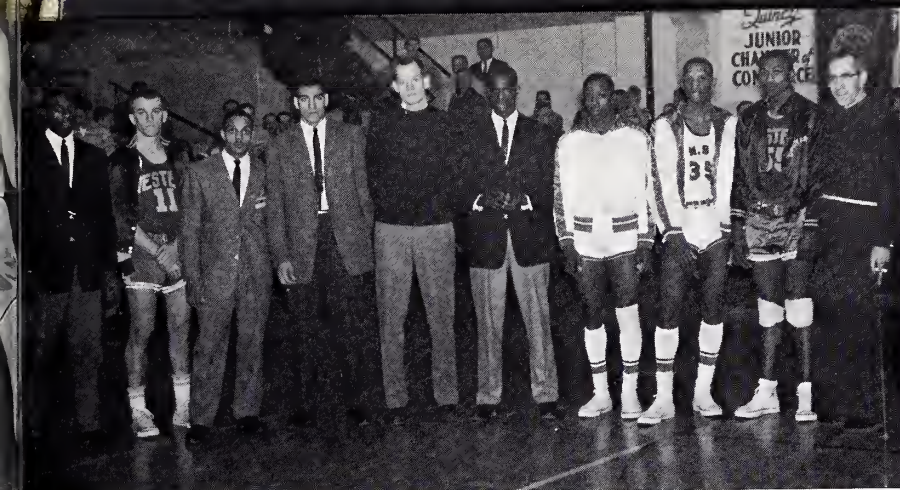

The Mart Heinen Club under the tourney chairmanship of Elvin Tappe, former Quincy College Hawk star and now coach of the Chicago Cubs, represents a cross-section of Quincy sports fans who arranged for the complete enjoyment of the more than one hundred players, coaches, and school representatives in Quincy for the four days.

Two special features of the tournament were the smoker in the American Legion hall, and the press and coaches breakfast at the Lincoln-Douglas hotel.

At the press and coaches breakfast, Al Duer, executive secretary of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, was the featured speaker. Duer stressed the theory that athletics are a great unifying force and that the efforts of civic groups and the backing of fans in the various cities make the events successful.

Dick Barnett, Tennessee State's 6'2" senior, was a unanimous choice as the Quincy College basketball tournament's most valuable player. Dick lived up to his rating as one of the nations finest as he averaged more than 34 points a game. The choice was made by a seven-man committee which included press and radio representatives.

Track and Cross-Country . . .

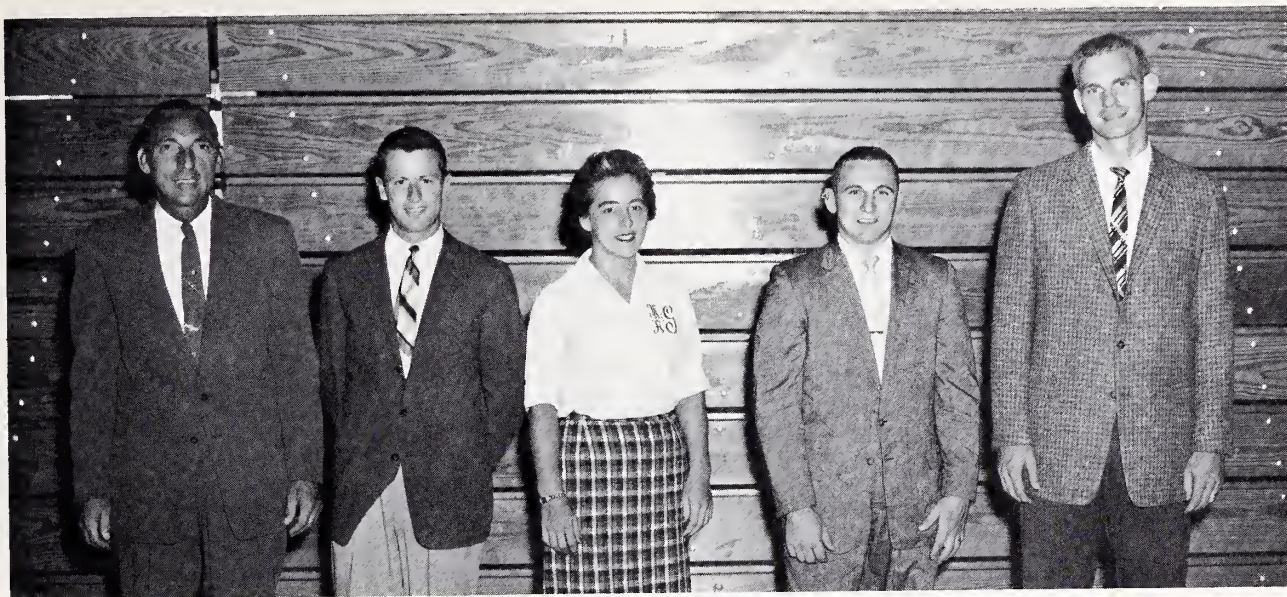

Quincy College participated in seven cross-country meets this year; four of them being home meets and three away. The largest meet was at Homecoming when the first Quincy Invitational Cross-Country meet was established. Letter winners of the season were Bob Cull, junior; Gary McBride, sophomore; Captain elect for '59) Jim Ribbe, sophomore; and the season's record was 4 Wins and 10 Losses.

The track squad, perhaps the most under-rated team in our athletic system, had a successful season. Quincy Johnson received the lion's share of the plaudits, but Mike Gelven pushed him in the 100, 220, and the broad jump. John Zuzevich was consistent in the pole vault and weight events and occasionally endangered the high jumper's peace of mind with 5'8" leaps.

Track is possibly the most demanding of all sports both in physical labor and mental strain, and Coach Ortwerth led his men so that they were equal to the challenge.

Tennis . . .

The 1958 tennis squad was the first inter-collegiate activity in that sport for the college and the "racketeers" did a reasonably good job, turning in a season's record of six wins and five losses.

The lettermen included Bob Pfyl, Chuck Kerker-ing, Frank Frawley, Larry Brinkman, Ron Altstadt, and Roger Frankenhoff. The only senior letterman was Frank Frawley.

The 1959 season has looked bright, although with the start of the second semester Ron Altstadt and Larry Brinkman were the only two net-men returnees. However, Kent Stickler, an outstanding Quincy High net-man has taken up a good deal of the slack for the Hawks.

Matches this spring included Western Illinois, Culver-Stockton, Carthage, Washington University, MacMurray, and St. Louis University.

A favorite activity among the co-eds in their physical education training is horseback riding.

Golf...

Under the tutorship of Larry Moller, Quincy College began its intercollegiate golf activities in 1958. The team's record, excluding the southern trip, was seven wins and five losses — a fairly successful season!

Around the golf course the easy way.

Quincy College will be host for the N.A.I.A. golf championship to be held here starting June 16, with between 90 and 120 top college golfers expected to take part.

The four day tourney will consist of 72 holes of medal play, with entrants from a majority of the 32 N.A.I.A. districts.

The choice of Quincy as the tournament site can be looked upon as both an honor and an opportunity for the college and the city.

Baseball . . .

The 1958 edition of the Quincy College Hawks was the first team in Hawk history to make a southern trip to Dixie. The team played in Nashville, Biloxi, and New Orleans among their stops in the South.

The nine won and 15 lost record was a considerable improvement over the 1—6 record of the previous year.

Highlights were victories in two of three from arch-rival Western Illinois and a victory over Arkansas State, who had just beaten NCAA runner-up, Missouri.

Individual leaders were paced by Captain elect Ken Niebrugge who connected for a solid .344 batting average, and led the team in total hits and stolen bases. Niebrugge was selected by his mates as the team's most valuable player. Also in the select group of .300 hitters, was Don Kabbes, sophomore shortstop, who batted .305. Leading the extra
